

245 East 83rd Street, #4B,
New York, New York 10028
United States

November 17th, 2008

Prof. Frank Milne
Department of Economics
Dunning Hall
Queen's University
Kingston, Ontario K7L 3N6
Canada

To Whom It May Concern:

As a Queen's University alumnus, I had the privilege of having Professor Frank Milne as my instructor for ECON 322 and ECON 873. I am writing to discuss my experience of having him as a professor.

Professor Milne is an outstanding professor, dedicated to ensuring his students receive the best education possible. He is adept at relating topics in finance to real world events, both past and present. With his background and experience, he instinctively teaches not just what students want to learn, but exactly what they need to learn to be successful both academically and professionally. Professor Milne's commitment to research and devotion to preparing students exemplifies his exceptional value both to students and Queen's University as a whole.

If you are planning to work professionally or pursue graduate school, I strongly recommend enrolling in Professor Milne's courses.

Sincerely,

Kunal Sachdeva,

B.A 2008, B.Sc 2007
Former Student: ECON 322, ECON 873
Currently: Bloomberg – Trading Systems